DOMAIN 1: Leadership for Rapid School Improvement

DOMAIN 1 Equity Focus

- The district acknowledges its own past or present implicit biases and takes action to mitigate them.
- The district’s mission, vision, and decision making processes are consistently and intentionally inclusive of the experiences of traditionally underserved stakeholders.
- The district’s prioritization of equity is reflected in the district mission, vision, and values.
- The district’s goals and performance management expectations and competencies consistently and explicitly include consideration of DEI (Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion) and culturally responsive pedagogy and teaching practices.
- Consistent data analysis illuminates gaps across student groups and subgroups over time that informs ambitious goals aimed to close achievement gaps. The district’s goal setting and progress monitoring consistently include consideration of equitable outcomes for traditionally underserved stakeholders.
- The district consistently and systematically provides substantial supports and resources, beyond what is required, for the additional needs of MLLs, students with special needs, students who qualify for free- and reduced-price lunch, and other underserved groups.

Indicator	Below Standard	Developing	Proficient	Exemplary
1.1: Mission, Vision, & Values	<input type="checkbox"/> Mission, Vision, and Values - The district lacks a clear mission and vision that communicates district values. <input type="checkbox"/> Mission- and Vision-informed Decision Making - The board, superintendent, and district do not ground decision making in the district’s mission and vision. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board’s actions do not support district leadership in developing goals based on community engagement and allocating funding and support for the district’s mission and vision and transformation efforts.	<input type="checkbox"/> Mission, Vision, and Values - The process to develop the district’s mission and vision may not involve representation from key stakeholder groups or may lack transparency. The district has a mission and vision, but the mission and vision do not clearly communicate the district’s values or elevate student achievement as a priority. Communication about the district’s mission, vision, and values may not be intentional. <input type="checkbox"/> Mission- and Vision-informed Decision Making - The board, superintendent, and district ground some types of decision making in the district’s mission and vision or inconsistently communicate to stakeholders how decisions support the mission and vision. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board occasionally allocates funding in support of the district’s mission, vision, and transformation efforts based on district recommendations, policies, and desired outcomes.	<input type="checkbox"/> Mission, Vision, and Values - The district engages in a transparent process involving key stakeholders from the district and community to develop their mission and vision and articulate their values. The district mission and vision are focused on student achievement, communicate district values, and are intentionally shared with all stakeholders through a variety of ways (e.g. social media, presentations, district website, communications to families, etc.). <input type="checkbox"/> Mission- and Vision-informed Decision Making - The board, superintendent, and district ground all decisions (academic, infrastructure, fiscal, human resource, operational, etc.) in the district’s mission and vision and consistently communicate to all stakeholders how decisions support the mission and vision. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board consistently allocates funding in support of the district’s mission, vision, and transformation efforts based on district recommendations, policies, and desired outcomes.	In addition to Proficient: <input type="checkbox"/> Mission, Vision, and Values - The district has developed clear look-fors for their mission, vision, and values that are visible at both the district and school levels. <input type="checkbox"/> Mission- and Vision-informed Decision Making - The district clearly distinguishes between areas of high organizational consistency to support its mission, vision, and values and areas where schools are empowered to make decisions based on their unique needs. These distinctions are grounded in the best interest of students. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board takes proactive efforts to collaborate with district leadership in developing goals based on community feedback and supporting the district’s mission and vision and transformation efforts.

Indicator	Below Standard	Developing	Proficient	Exemplary
1.2: Continuous Improvement	❑ District Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district does not identify 2-4 major improvement strategies. The district may have goals, but the goals are not specific, measurable, or are not communicated clearly to stakeholders. ❑ School Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district does not take an active role in identifying major improvement strategies or goal setting with schools. ❑ Board Support - The board occasionally monitors progress toward district goals but does not specifically monitor the results of policies related to school transformation. The board often makes operational decisions that should fall under the purview of the superintendent.	❑ District Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district identifies 2-4 major improvement strategies; however, they may be misaligned to data, unclear, or not high leverage. The district sets specific, measurable, and attainable goals that may not be aligned to district major improvement strategies. Goals may not be ambitious or may not include both student outcomes and systems implementation. The district communicates goals to all stakeholders. ❑ School Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district supports schools in identifying 2-3 major improvement strategies; however, they may be misaligned to data, unclear, or not high leverage. The district supports schools in setting goals, but goals may not be specific, measurable, ambitious, attainable, or aligned to the school's major improvement strategies or achievement gaps. ❑ Board Support - The board occasionally monitors progress toward district goals and the results of policies related to school transformation.	❑ District Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district uses state and local data to identify 2-4 high leverage major improvement strategies. The district sets specific, measurable, ambitious, and attainable goals and benchmarks aligned to district major improvement strategies. Goals include both student outcomes and systems implementation. The district clearly communicates goals to all stakeholders in a variety of ways, such as at district leadership meetings, in consistent slides during professional learning sessions, on social media, in newsletters, etc.. There is a clear system in place to progress-monitor goals and make adjustments to strategies or resources as needed. ❑ School Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district supports schools in using state and local data to identify 2-3 high leverage major improvement strategies. The district supports schools in setting specific, measurable, ambitious, and attainable goals and benchmarks aligned to the school's major improvement strategies and achievement gaps. The district supports schools in timely, data-based progress monitoring of goals. The district supports communicating goals and progress to staff, students, and families and building an understanding of their roles in supporting the school's goals. If the district authorizes charter schools, the district monitors the goals and benchmarks aligned to charter school contracts. ❑ Board Support - The board consistently monitors progress toward district goals and the results of policies related to school transformation.	In addition to Proficient: ❑ District Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district models and engages in a transparent process to communicate progress to families and the community quarterly or by trimester around which goals are on- and off-track or met and unmet and the district's clear next steps to achieve these goals. ❑ School Goal Setting and Progress Monitoring - The district works with schools to create alignment between individual schools' goals and the district's goals. ❑ Board Support - The board takes a proactive interest in the progress of low-performing schools and engages district leaders to ensure their due diligence regarding the use of best practices and related policies in these schools. The board doesn't make operational decisions that fall under the purview of the superintendent.

Indicator	Below Standard	Developing	Proficient	Exemplary
1.3: Supports for Low-Performing Schools	<input type="checkbox"/> Leadership - The district does not designate district leaders to provide support and oversight to low-performing schools, or designates leaders who lack a record of success in improving low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Focus - The district does not allow for prioritizing a smaller number of transformation initiatives at low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Intentional Tiering - The district does not strategically tier their schools based on need. <input type="checkbox"/> Understanding State and Federal Accountability - The district does not understand the statutory pathways for schools on the accountability clock or the requirements associated with the accountability timeline in each year. The district does not understand the attached UIP and ESSA requirements and does not actively seek resources to support schools progressing along the accountability clock. <input type="checkbox"/> Resources - The district does not prioritize funding and resources for low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board does not consistently support district policies regarding transformation efforts in low-performing schools and does not ensure that the district’s budget is aligned with those policies and efforts. The board often makes operational decisions that should fall under the purview of the superintendent related to support for low performing schools.	<input type="checkbox"/> Leadership - The district designates district leaders to provide support and oversight to low-performing schools who have a record of success in these schools, but provides them limited authority or autonomy, reducing their ability to impact schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Focus - The district allows principals and principal managers at low-performing schools to adjust their areas of focus but does not reduce other initiatives to create the additional capacity to fully prioritize their transformation efforts. <input type="checkbox"/> Intentional Tiering - The district may strategically tier their schools based on need, but principal managers and other district staff have similar caseloads across the system regardless of school tier. <input type="checkbox"/> Understanding State and Federal Accountability - The district has a basic understanding of the statutory pathways for schools on the accountability clock. The district has limited understanding of the requirements associated with the accountability timeline in each year and may require support for full understanding. The district has a limited understanding of the attached UIP and ESSA requirements and may attempt to access resources; however, access may be limited due to only partial knowledge of requirements and resources available. <input type="checkbox"/> Resources - The district makes some efforts to prioritize funding and resources for low-performing schools, but does so inconsistently. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board occasionally supports district policies regarding transformation efforts in low-performing schools and occasionally ensures that the district’s budget is aligned with those policies and efforts.	<input type="checkbox"/> Leadership - The district designates district leaders to provide support and oversight to low-performing schools who have a record of success in these schools and provides them the authority and autonomy to enact significant change at those schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Focus - The district proactively shields principals and principal managers at low-performing schools from some district initiatives that are not directly aligned to school goals, allowing leaders to focus their efforts on a small number of high leverage transformation strategies, structures, and professional learning with support for coverage from their principal manager as necessary. <input type="checkbox"/> Intentional Tiering - The district strategically tiers their schools based on need. The district ensures that principal managers and other district staff assigned to support the lowest-performing / highest tiered schools have the bandwidth to spend the majority of their time in those schools, even if this means giving a higher caseload of lower tiered schools to other principal managers and district support staff. <input type="checkbox"/> Understanding State and Federal Accountability - The district has a strong understanding of the statutory pathways for schools on the accountability clock. The district understands the requirements associated with the accountability timeline in each year (e.g. holding a community meeting in Year 3) and the attached UIP and ESSA requirements. The district uses this knowledge to access resources (e.g. funding or additional support) as schools progress along the accountability clock. <input type="checkbox"/> Resources - The district transparently prioritizes funding and resources in the form of staffing, curricula, internal and external partnerships, grants, interventions, and materials for low-performing schools, creating equitable and predictable systems of support. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board consistently supports district policies regarding transformation efforts in low-performing schools and consistently ensures that the district’s budget is aligned with those policies and efforts.	In addition to Proficient: <input type="checkbox"/> Leadership -The leaders who support low-performing schools have significant input in district decisions, ensuring that low-performing schools are well represented in district decisions. The district ensures continuity of support from year to year, including consistency in principal managers and district support staff when possible. <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Focus - The district uses school data on effectiveness of specific transformation strategies to inform decisions about reprioritizing district-wide strategies, structures, and professional learning that may positively impact outcomes for students in all schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Intentional Tiering - The district engages in processes to regularly evaluate school tiers and principal manager caseloads to ensure effectiveness of supports and that principal managers can spend the majority of their time in the lowest-performing/highest tiered schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Understanding State and Federal Accountability - The district has a clear system to support schools in understanding state and federal accountability. <input type="checkbox"/> Resources - The district proactively and aggressively seeks out additional funding and evidence-based resources for their lowest performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board encourages district leaders’ proactive consideration of the needs of low-performing schools and approves requests for the allocation of resources and adoption of policies to meet these needs. The board avoids making operational decisions that fall under the purview of the superintendent related to supports for low performing schools.

Indicator	Below Standard	Developing	Proficient	Exemplary
1.4: Operations, Systems, & Finance	<input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Budgeting Alignment and Processes - The district lacks guidelines for annual school or department budget alignments, how schools can best use funds, and how general and title funds can be used effectively. <input type="checkbox"/> Long-Range Planning - The district does not ensure predictable funding parameters for long-term school and district planning that allow for timely realignment of resources. The district has not committed to the investment in infrastructure (capital and human), a strategic approach to grant seeking, or an articulated Theory of Action on budgeting/resource allocation (e.g. student-based budgeting, weighted funding based on student characteristics, tiered status, AEC status, etc.). <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Community Partnerships - The district does not support strategic partnerships to build and expand its capacity for student and staff support, leveraging the improvement efforts at schools, and broadening student learning opportunities (e.g. - health care, mental health services, academic offerings, tech agreements with local internet providers, partnerships with universities/colleges to build teacher or leader pipelines, partnerships to decrease health care or facilities costs).	<input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Budgeting Alignment and Processes - The district aligns available funds and resources to the district strategic plan. The district has guidelines for annual school or department budget alignments, how schools can best use funds, and understandings of how general and title funds can be used effectively; however, these may be unclear. The district communicates these processes and expectations to principal supervisors to support schools in decision-making, but communication may not be timely or strategic. <input type="checkbox"/> Long-Range Planning - The district plans for facility, staff, or program needs projections (e.g. anticipating and responding to demographic projections and shifts, projecting enrollment changes, specialized program needs, school of choice options), but only 5-10 years out. The district commits to the investment in infrastructure (capital and human), a strategic approach to grant seeking, and an articulated Theory of Action on budgeting/resource allocation (e.g. student-based budgeting, weighted funding based on student characteristics, tiered status, AEC status, etc.). There is a process for evaluating the impact of funds that drives funding decisions and allows for Theory of Action adjustment on resources, but this process may be unclear or not data-driven. <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Community Partnerships - The district supports strategic partnerships to build and expand its capacity for student and staff support, leveraging the improvement efforts at schools, and broadening student learning opportunities (e.g. - health care, mental health services, academic offerings, tech agreements with local internet providers, partnerships with universities/colleges to build teacher or leader pipelines, partnerships to decrease health care or facilities costs). Partnerships may not always align with district and school priorities.	<input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Budgeting Alignment and Processes - The district consistently and systematically aligns available funds and resources to the district strategic plan and mission and vision and ensures they address school needs. The district has clear, fiscally compliant guidelines for annual school and department budget alignments, how schools can best use funds, and clear understandings of how general and title funds can be used effectively. The district actively communicates these processes and expectations to principal supervisors to support schools in decision-making. <input type="checkbox"/> Long-Range Planning - The district ensures predictable funding parameters for long-term school and district planning. The district consistently plans for facility, staff, or program needs in 5, 10, or 20 year projections (e.g. anticipating and responding to demographic projections and shifts, projecting enrollment changes, specialized program needs, school of choice options). Allocation of funds allows for long-term planning to invest in future needs (e.g. - land trades, staff housing, mills/bonds). The district commits to the investment in infrastructure (capital and human), a strategic approach to grant seeking, and an articulated Theory of Action on budgeting/resource allocation (e.g. student-based budgeting, weighted funding based on student characteristics, tiered status, AEC status, etc.). There is a clear, data-driven process for evaluating the impact of funds that drives funding decisions and allows for Theory of Action adjustment on resources. <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Community Partnerships - The district fosters, facilitates, and supports strategic partnerships to build and expand its capacity for student and staff support, leveraging the improvement efforts at schools, and broadening student learning opportunities (e.g. - health care, mental health services, academic offerings, tech agreements with local internet providers, partnerships with universities/colleges to build teacher or leader pipelines, partnerships to decrease health care or facilities costs). The district acts as a broker and gatekeeper to ensure partnerships align with district and school priorities.	In addition to Proficient: <input type="checkbox"/> Strategic Community Partnerships - The district maintains minimal long-standing partnerships that may not currently directly align to the district's mission, vision, and strategic plan. These partnerships are maintained to preserve relationships that align with forecasted school and district needs and do not derail the prioritized work aligned to the district's mission, vision, and strategic plan.

1.4: Operations, Systems, & Finance (cont.)	<input type="checkbox"/> Operational or Technical Support - The district does not have clear systems and structures in place to efficiently and effectively support district and school staff to carry out daily operations and receive assistance to resolve any issues in a timely manner (e.g. - tech team, maintenance department, employee-facing HR and payroll supports, etc.). If the district authorizes charter schools, there are not clear systems and processes in place to support charter schools including board adopted authorizing policies; clear processes for charter approval and renewal; processes for monitoring academic, financial, operational performance and issuing annual performance reports; and strong performance-based contracts. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board does not monitor their policies or governance practices regarding operational and financial procedures related to district efforts to secure resources, community partnerships, and improve student outcomes. The board often makes operational decisions that should fall under the purview of the superintendent related to supports for low performing schools.	<input type="checkbox"/> Operational or Technical Support - The district has systems and structures in place to support district and school staff to carry out daily operations and receive assistance to resolve any issues in a timely manner (e.g. - tech team, maintenance department, employee-facing HR and payroll supports, etc.); however these systems and structures may be unclear to school and district leaders. If the district authorizes charter schools, there are systems and processes in place to support charter schools including board adopted authorizing policies; clear processes for charter approval and renewal; processes for monitoring academic, financial, operational performance and issuing annual performance reports; and strong performance-based contracts; however, these systems may be unclear. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board occasionally supports district policies and best governance practices regarding operational and financial procedures related to district efforts to secure resources, community partnerships, and improve student outcomes.	<input type="checkbox"/> Operational or Technical Support - The district has clear systems and structures in place to support district and school staff to carry out daily operations and receive assistance to resolve any issues in a timely manner (e.g. - tech team, maintenance department, employee-facing HR and payroll supports, etc.). DOMAIN 2: Talent Management

DOMAIN 2 Equity Focus

- The district has consistent and intentional practices to recruit, hire, place, and retain diverse educators and district leaders.
- The district consistently prioritizes diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) in professional development opportunities.
- Talent pipelines consistently contribute to staff diversity at low-performing schools.
- Developing proficiency with knowledge, skills, and strategies that support DEI is included as a component of staff rubrics and evaluations.

Indicator	Below Standard	Developing	Proficient	Exemplary
2.1: Recruitment and Retention	<input type="checkbox"/> Recruitment - The district does not have a strategic long-term plan to recruit high-quality teachers, principals, and district staff to low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Hiring - The district does not adjust hiring processes for low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Retention - The district does not make meaningful efforts to retain high performing teachers, principals, and principal managers in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Collaboration with Education Associations - The district doesn't not have partnerships with education associations. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board does not support the adoption and implementation of policies pertaining to staff diversity and recruitment, hiring, placement, and retention at low-performing schools. The board often makes operational decisions in these areas that should fall under the purview of the superintendent.	<input type="checkbox"/> Recruitment - The district implements limited or inconsistent strategies to recruit high-quality teachers, principals, and district staff to low-performing schools, or does not allow schools additional recruitment strategies or flexibility. <input type="checkbox"/> Hiring - The district provides low-performing schools with some flexibilities in hiring, but does not meaningfully address systematic challenges to effective hiring. <input type="checkbox"/> Retention - The district makes efforts to retain high-performing teachers, principals, and principal managers in low-performing schools, but incentives are unclear or inconsistent. <input type="checkbox"/> Collaboration with Education Associations - The district cultivates partnerships with education associations that promote formal and informal communication among the union, principals, and teachers. However, these partnerships may develop in a more reactionary state rather than proactive state. These partnerships allow for processes that result in support and decisions made in the best interest of students, but these processes are not yet transparent and systemwide. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board occasionally supports the adoption and implementation of policies pertaining to staff diversity and recruitment, hiring, placement, and retention at low-performing schools.	<input type="checkbox"/> Recruitment - The district implements a strategic plan to recruit high-quality teachers, principals, and district staff to low-performing schools who have specific experience, knowledge, skills, and mindsets to succeed in low-performing schools. The district allows schools additional strategies or flexibility as needed. <input type="checkbox"/> Hiring - The district provides low-performing schools with additional flexibilities in hiring (e.g. earlier hiring), including adjustments to negotiated agreements when appropriate. The hiring process provides candidates opportunities to engage in practices and demonstrate skills needed in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Retention - The district has clear strategic staffing opportunities and incentives (e.g. - increased leadership opportunities, flexibility in the creation of new roles or adjustment of roles to maximize individuals' effectiveness, job sharing, additional pay, or prestigious professional learning opportunities), that effectively increase the retention of high-performing teachers, principals, and principal managers in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Collaboration with Education Associations - The district cultivates proactive partnerships with education associations that promote formal and informal communication among the union, principals, and teachers. These partnerships allow for transparent processes that result in support and decisions made in the best interest of students with special consideration for students in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board consistently supports the adoption and implementation of policies pertaining to staff diversity and recruitment, hiring, placement, and retention at low-performing schools.	In addition to Proficient: <input type="checkbox"/> Recruitment - The district uses networking to actively pursue highly skilled candidates well in advance of open positions that may suite their skill set. The district regularly analyzes recruitment data for gaps, planning action steps, and setting targets around recruitment. <input type="checkbox"/> Hiring - The district has processes in place that prioritize and ensure timely hiring of high-quality staff for low-performing schools. The district is dedicated to ensuring that candidates hired to low-performing schools commit to working in those schools after being offered the position. <input type="checkbox"/> Retention - The district regularly analyzes teacher satisfaction and retention data to determine gaps across the system and intentionally plan strategies to increase teacher retention. <input type="checkbox"/> Collaboration with Education Associations - The district engages regularly with education associations to collaboratively review strengths and determine next steps to further strengthen the partnership. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board initiates conversations and policies regarding staff diversity and recruitment, hiring, placement, and retention at low-performing schools. The board avoids making operational decisions that fall under the purview of the superintendent related to supports for low performing schools.

Indicator	Below Standard	Developing	Proficient	Exemplary
2.2: Talent Development	<input type="checkbox"/> Professional Development (PD) - The district does not provide differentiated or targeted PD to meet the needs of staff who work in and support low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Observation and Feedback - The district does not support schools with instructional observations and feedback. <input type="checkbox"/> Principal Coaching - The district does not provide frequent coaching or feedback to leaders in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Parallel Learning - District leaders do not show commitment to side by side professional learning with school leaders around high leverage transformation strategies and do not attend these sessions. <input type="checkbox"/> Talent Pipelines - The district has not established leadership pipelines and career pipelines for promising teachers and school leaders. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board does not monitor the policies and outcomes regarding the district's PD, partnerships, and leadership pipelines. The board often makes operational decisions in these areas that should fall under the purview of the superintendent.	<input type="checkbox"/> Professional Development (PD) - The district provides PD to schools, but the PD may vary in consistency, quality, or alignment with district or school needs, and may not effectively meet the needs of staff who work in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Observation and Feedback - The district provides schools with some tools and PD to support instructional observations and feedback, but supports do not result in feedback that is consistent, high leverage, or actionable. <input type="checkbox"/> Principal Coaching - The district provides coaching and feedback for leaders in low-performing schools, but may not effectively build leadership capacity, align with leaders' needs, or may lack support or follow through, clarity on next steps, or consistency. <input type="checkbox"/> Parallel Learning - District leaders who support low-performing schools may occasionally engage in side by side professional learning with school leaders around high leverage transformation strategies, and they do not attend consistently. <input type="checkbox"/> Talent Pipelines - The district has leadership pipelines for promising teachers and leaders, but these pipelines may not be strategic or do not include training and incentives to support placement in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board occasionally monitors the policies and outcomes regarding the district's PD, partnerships, and leadership pipelines.	<input type="checkbox"/> Professional Development (PD) - The district designs a professional learning scope and sequence aligned to evidenced-based strategies for school improvement and data-based school needs. The district uses transparent processes to evaluate the effectiveness of PD and provides follow-up and monitoring of implementation, leading to a change in practice in schools. The district uses timely local data to provide differentiated professional learning as needed. <input type="checkbox"/> Observation and Feedback - The district provides school leadership teams with tools and PD to provide consistent, timely, actionable, and high-leverage informal instructional observations and feedback to teachers using consistent evidence-based look-fors. The district provides schools with tools and PD to track observation and feedback trends and use those trends to inform timely professional learning. <input type="checkbox"/> Principal Coaching - The district provides regular and strategic coaching and feedback to leaders in low-performing schools that builds leadership capacity, is aligned with leaders' needs, and includes actionable, time-bound next steps for both the principal and principal manager. <input type="checkbox"/> Parallel Learning - District leaders who support low-performing schools are committed to regular side by side professional learning with school leaders around high leverage transformation strategies. <input type="checkbox"/> Talent Pipelines - The district has established leadership pipelines for promising teachers and leaders that include training and incentives for placement and high performance in low-performing schools. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board consistently monitors the policies and outcomes regarding the district's PD, partnerships, and leadership pipelines, and supports adjustments to these policies and initiatives when needed.	In addition to Proficient: <input type="checkbox"/> Professional Development (PD) - The district uses data to elevate school and leadership bright spots as exemplars during district professional learning to build capacity and promote strengths-based learning. The district empowers district and school leaders to seek their own professional development within and outside the district. The district provides support in terms of supervision or coverage that allows school leaders to attend high quality professional learning that aligns with their major improvement strategies. <input type="checkbox"/> Observation and Feedback - The district nurtures its growth culture by providing consistent feedback to principal managers and other district staff. <input type="checkbox"/> Principal Coaching - The district has processes to proactively and intentionally seek out the highest performing principals across the district to elevate as exemplars for specific evidence-based strategies during targeted professional learning across the district. <input type="checkbox"/> Parallel Learning - District leaders of varying roles, who may not yet support low-performing schools, attend professional learning with school leaders around high leverage transformation strategies. <input type="checkbox"/> Talent Pipelines - The district's leadership pipelines consider future school needs, identifying and developing potential transformation leaders two or more years before assuming leadership roles. <input type="checkbox"/> Board Support - The board initiates conversations regarding how PD and partnerships and the policies that guide them contribute to board, district, and school goals. The board avoids making operational decisions that fall under the purview of the superintendent related to supports for low performing schools.
