Our Commitment to Your Privacy

The information on this site will be updated as necessary. It was most recently updated Jan. 15, 2016.

The College Board respects your privacy, and we are committed to protecting it. We have created this page so that you can easily access our policies about the different ways in which your personal information might be used, and the options you have to control it.

Data Privacy Overview

We have designed a set of privacy principles, which govern how we use your personal information. The College Board gives students the opportunity to choose what personal information they provide to us and how we may share that information.

1. The College Board collects personal information only to administer tests and deliver educational opportunities to students.
2. The College Board gives students and families complete discretion as to how much additional information they disclose, beyond the minimum information needed to connect students with college success, including registering for the SAT or saving college lists.
 - During the registration process, we ask students for: name, address, date of birth, gender, Social Security Number or student ID, and address. We may also ask for phone numbers and email addresses, school name, grade level or expected graduation date, ethnicity, and a parent's name, email address, and education level.
 - Sometimes, schools will provide us with student personal information to register the students for College Board tests. Schools may share student name, address, date of birth, and gender, and in certain circumstances information about students to help the College Board determine if they qualify for fee waivers. Students provide any remaining personal information themselves.
 - For students who use our financial aid application services, including CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE, we collect family and student financial information only for the purpose of aiding the institution in processing the students' aid application.

The screenshot shows a user interface for a student score report. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for "My Score Reports", "AP Potential", "Popular Tools", and "End Demo", along with a "HELP" icon. The main content area features a dark header with the text "Welcome, Ima. Here is your most recent score." Below this, the report is for a "PSAT/NMSQT" taken in "Fall 2015" by an "11th Grade" student. The total score is prominently displayed as "860". Two sub-scores are shown: "380" for "Evidence-Based Reading and Writing" and "480" for "Math". A blue "View Details" button is located below the total score. A note states: "Keep in mind, the PSAT/NMSQT and SAT are on the same scale. Your score shows you how you would have scored that day on the SAT. How well you do depends on what you do next!" To the right of the scores are four action buttons: "SAT Registration", "SAT Practice on Khan Academy®", "College Search", and "Scholarships", each with a right-pointing arrow. Below the main report area, there is a section titled "Your Past Score Results" with a search input field.
