

Summer Food Service Program

The Summer Food Service Program ensures that children continue to receive nutritious meals during the summer, when they do not have access to school lunch or breakfast. The Summer Food Service Program began in 1968 and provides nutritious food that's "in" when school is "out".

How does the Program Work?

The SFSP is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Services. CDE's Office of School Nutrition approves sponsor applications, conducts training of sponsors, monitors program operations, and processes program payments.

Who can Sponsor a Summer Food Service Program?

Sponsors must be organizations that are fully capable of managing a food service program. Sponsors must follow regulations and be responsible, financially and administratively, for running the program.

Sponsors of sites, which are not camps, must serve either:

1. A site in an area in which at least 50 percent of the children, who live in that defined area are eligible for free or reduced-price meals in the National School Lunch program.
2. A site which enrolls children, at least 50 percent of whom meet the Summer Food Service Program's income eligibility standards.

At non-camp sites, reimbursement may be claimed for all meals served that meet Summer Food Service Program guidelines. Sponsors offering the program at camp sites may claim reimbursement only for the program meals served to enrolled children who meet the program's income eligibility standards.

Who can Participate?

All children 18 years of age and under who come to an approved open site or to an eligible enrolled site may receive meals. At camps, only the children eligible for free and reduced-price meals are reimbursed. A person 19 years of age and over who has a mental or physical disability (as determined by a State or local educational agency) and participates during the school year in a public or private non-profit school program may also receive meals.

Open or closed enrolled sites can serve up to two meals; lunch, and either breakfast or snack, every day. Camps may serve up to three meals per day (any combination of breakfast, lunch, supper, or snack).

How are Sponsors Reimbursed for the Meals Served?

Sponsor reimbursements are based on the number of reimbursable meals served multiplied by the federal rate of reimbursement which is determined annually.

How do Organizations Apply to be a Summer Food Service Program Sponsor?

All sponsors must complete the state agency annual training. All new sponsors must attend the in-person training and returning sponsors in good standing have the option to complete the on-line training. Once the training is complete, the organization applies via an online application.
