

District Accountability Committee Forum

Douglas County School District

Castle Rock, CO

COLORADO
Department of Education

The goal of Douglas County School District’s (DCSD) Accountability Committee Forum is to educate and inform parents, families, and community members about the various aspects of the school district. Attendees receive information about several aspects of DCSD’s students’ education; they are then able to partner more successfully with teachers and school staff to improve their student’s education process and outcomes.

Classes offered range from information sessions about student performance and district budget priorities, tips on how to partner with a student’s teacher, and grassroots outreach provided by Grassroots St. Vrain. Principal and teacher discussion panels, crisis communications overviews, and mental health discussions were also included to provide comprehensive information to parents and families.

DCSD’s District Accountability Forum focused on bringing the community together to discuss the needs of students and determine how parents and community members can best affect student educational outcomes. Over 300 attendees expanded their horizons and learned how to support student success in Douglas County Public Schools.
