Reciprocal Teaching	Reciprocal teaching refers to an instructional activity in which students become the teacher in small group reading sessions. Teachers model, then help students learn to guide group discussions using four strategies: summarizing, question generating, clarifying, and predicting. Once students have learned the strategies, they take turns assuming the role of teacher in leading a dialogue about what has been read.	https://www.readingrockets.o rg/strategies/reciprocal_teachi ng
Using Collaborative Strategic Reading	Collaborative Strategic Reading (CSR) teaches students to use comprehension strategies while working cooperatively. Student strategies include previewing the text; giving ongoing feedback by deciding "click" (I get it) or "clunk" (I don't get it) at the end of each paragraph; "getting the gist" of the most important parts of the text; and "wrapping up" key ideas.	https://www.readingrockets.o rg/article/using-collaborative-s trategic-reading
RAND Report: Reading for Understanding	In 1999, the Office of Educational Research and Improvement of the U.S. Department of Education charged the RAND Reading Study Group (RRSG) with developing a research agenda to address the most-pressing issues in literacy. The decision was made to focus this research agenda proposal on reading comprehension.	https://www.rand.org/content /dam/rand/pubs/monograph reports/2005/MR1465.pdf

Assessment
