Summary of the program: : Starfall Kindergarten is a magical, creative, sequential, and integrated reading and language arts curriculum that integrates content-area instruction in reading, social studies, science, and technology, all supported by stories and activities at Starfall.com and on the Starfall Viewer App. Starfall strikes a dynamic balance between teacher-directed instruction and child-directed learning. Teachers guide children as they explore their interests, contribute their insights, and encounter new information. Daily lessons include whole and small group instruction, and collaborative learning activities. Day 5 of each week is designated for review, during which children participate in learning centers while teachers conduct individual assessments. Starfall Kindergarten meets or exceeds both Common Core and Colorado Academic Standards. A study of the Starfall Curriculum in the Colorado Roaring Fork School District in 2013 demonstrated that Starfall students far outpaced other students in reading proficiency in all student subgroups. Advisory Program Description

NOTE: We use the following descriptions to define various types of instructional support in early literacy. Please review the descriptions and identify your program according to the type of instructional support it is intended to deliver. Each approved instructional program should classify itself under one type of instructional programming only.

Core Instruction is instruction provided to all students in the class, and it is usually guided by a comprehensive core reading program. Part of the core instruction is usually provided to the class as a whole, and part is provided during the small group, differentiated instruction period. Although instruction is differentiated by student need during the small group period, materials and lesson procedures from the core program can frequently be used to provide reteaching, or additional teaching to students according to their needs.

Supplemental Instruction is instruction that goes beyond that provided by the comprehensive core program because the core program does not provide enough instruction or practice in a key area to meet the needs of the students in a particular classroom or school. For example, teachers in a school may observe that their comprehensive core program does not provide enough instruction in vocabulary, or in phonics, to adequately meet the needs of the majority of their students. They could then select a supplemental program in these areas to strengthen the initial instruction and practice provided to all students.

Intervention Instruction is provided only to students who are lagging behind their classmates in the development of critical reading skills. This instruction will usually be guided by a specific intervention program that focuses on one or more of the key areas of reading development. This type of instruction is needed by only a relatively small minority of students in a class. In some cases, students in 2nd and 3rd grade may have lagged so far behind grade level development of reading skills that very little content from the grade level comprehensive core program is suitable for them. In these cases, students may need to receive instruction guided by a comprehensive intervention program that is specifically designed to meet their specific needs while at the same time accelerating their growth toward grade level reading ability.
