Communication is the Key

Performance Assessment: You and your group of peers will become “Game Masters” to create a game that focuses on healthy relationships and how good communication and decision making are important in setting boundaries and bringing favorable outcomes for life. These games (e.g. board, video, Jeopardy, etc.) will include elements of risk behaviors, consequences, communication, boundary setting, belief systems, elements of the decision making model, and adult support/advocacy. Your group will partner with another group to play each team’s game.