Unit Title: Friday Afternoon Live: Improvisation and Sketch Comedy

This unit was authored by a team of Colorado educators. The template provided one example of unit design that enabled teacher-authors to organize possible learning experiences, resources, differentiation, and assessments. The unit is intended to support teachers, schools, and districts as they make their own local decisions around the best instructional plans and practices for all students.

Critical Thinking and Reasoning: Thinking Deeply, Thinking Differently
Information Literacy: Untangling the Web
Self-Direction: Own Your Learning
Invention: Creating Solutions

The Colorado Academic Standards for Drama and Theatre Arts are not intended to be taught in a linear (checklist of coverage) fashion, but rather should be implemented as a cyclical creative process. Each unit within this sample blueprint intentionally includes standards from all three drama and theatre arts standards to illustrate this process-based philosophy.

Unit Description:

In this unit, students will investigate, discover and critique improvisation and original sketch comedy to bolster knowledge of human expression and emotion. The unit will culminate in a two-part performance including an improvised scene and a sketched scene. The focus of the unit will be exploration and play of human expression and emotion.

Considerations:

This unit is designed to work with “Friday Afternoon Live-Improvisation and Sketch Comedy”. This unit is intended for beginner level improv/sketch comedy students, but could easily be adapted for higher-level improv/sketch comedy students. Besides introducing traditional formats of improv and sketch comedy, the concepts of characterization are also explored. Students will draw upon their knowledge of cultural backgrounds when creating their work.

Unit Generalizations

Key Generalization:

Fundamental: Investigation and discovery through improvisation and original scriptwriting will bolster knowledge of human expression and emotion.

Supporting Generalizations:

Fundamental: Patterns in performance and rehearsal processes will establish skills necessary for successful improvisation technique.

Extended: Observation and critique of peer performance cultivates fine-tuning of composition within a performance to enhance a finished product.

Performance Assessment: The capstone/summative assessment for this unit.

Claims:

(Additional generalization(s) to be mastered and demonstrated through the capstone assessment.)

Investigation and discovery through improvisation and original scriptwriting will bolster knowledge of human expression and emotion.

Stimulus Material:

(Engaging scenario that includes role, audience, goal/outcome and explicitly connects the key generalization)

Your Improv Team is auditioning for the casting directors of Saturday Night Live. Your group will perform an improvised scene based on a culture with which you are familiar. Following your improvised scene, you will investigate, discover, and revise the improvised scene, and create and perform an original sketch comedy scene for the casting directors based on the original scene. Your audience expects you to write and perform well-developed characters with a range of emotions in both scenes to express an authentic parody of the characters and/or culture.

Product/Evidence:

(Expected product from students)

Students will perform two scenes. The first will be an improvised scene based on a culture with which they are familiar. The second will be an original sketch comedy parody that will be a revised version of the original improvised scene. Both scenes will demonstrate the following skills:

- Performance Fundamentals:
  - Blocking
  - Projection/Articulation
  - Technical Elements
- Collaboration both in process and product
- Writing for sketch comedy
Colorado Teacher-Authored Sample Instructional Unit

- Improvisation Skills
- Character Creation in Sketch and Improv
- Student Generated Criteria

Differentiation:
(Multiple modes for student expression)

Additional ways students can demonstrate these skills:
If students have difficulty selecting a culture and character that they are more or less familiar with, they will be assigned one that fits their needs.

Prior Knowledge and Experiences

The students should have some prior experience in developing plot, character and setting. Knowledge of basic stage direction and theatre vocabulary is encouraged, but not mandatory. Students should have knowledge of the theatre fundamentals including blocking, projection/articulation and technical elements. Students will have prior knowledge of the improvisational process.

Learning Experiences # 1 – 8

Instructional Timeframe: Teacher Determined

Learning Experience # 1

The teacher may share a series of professional improv actor performances so that students can understand the aspects of improvised theatre.

Generalization Connection(s):

- Investigation and discovery through improvisation and original scriptwriting will bolster knowledge of human expression and emotion.
- Patterns in performance and rehearsal processes will establish skills necessary for successful improvisation technique.

Learning Experience # 2

The teacher may use improv games, such as Viola Spolin’s games focused on Where (setting), What (plot) and Who (character), so that students can gain improv performance experience with given character and circumstances.

Generalization Connection(s):
Investigation and discovery through improvisation and original scriptwriting will bolster knowledge of human expression and emotion. Patterns in performance and rehearsal processes will establish skills necessary for successful improvisation technique. Observation and critique of peer performance cultivates fine-tuning of composition within a performance to enhance a finished product.

High School, Drama and Theatre Arts
Unit Title: Friday Afternoon Live – Improvisation and Sketch Comedy

Page 10 of 18
The teacher may introduce short form improv games for performance, such as those showcased on Whose Line Is It Anyway?, so that students can understand character choices in improv.

Generalization Connection(s):
- Investigation and discovery through improvisation and original scriptwriting will bolster knowledge of human expression and emotion.
- Patterns in performance and rehearsal processes will establish skills necessary for successful improvisation technique.
- Observation and critique of peer performance cultivates fine-tuning of composition within a performance to enhance a finished product.

Teacher Resources:

Assessment:
- Students will explore short form improv, focusing on characterization by performing in improvisational games in front of their classmates. Games may include Whose line, Translator, Sound Effects, Stand-Sit-Lie Down, Questions Only, Alphabet Game and Last Line.

Differentiation:
- Access (Resources and/or Process)
  - Teacher may scaffold the games’ level of difficulty.
- Expression (Products and/or Performance)
  - Students may perform the appropriate number of improvisational fundamentals based on learning level.

Extensions for depth and complexity:
