This unit was authored by a team of Colorado educators. The template provided one example of unit design that enabled teacher-authors to organize possible learning experiences, resources, differentiation, and assessments. The unit is intended to support teachers, schools, and districts as they make their own local decisions around the best instructional plans and practices for all students.

Technical Vocabulary: Classic Hero, Tragic Hero, Epic, Quest, Archetype, Plot, Hubris, Catharsis, Hamartia, Characterization, Climax, Setting, Exposition, Rising Action, Denouement, Resolution, Irony, Motif, Symbol, Theme, Conflict, Foil, Antagonist, Protagonist, Connotation, Denotation, Figurative Language, Tone, Narrative, Euphemism, Figures of Speech
Unit Description:

This 4-6 week unit focuses on how cultural experiences, societal influences, and adversity impact individuals in those cultures. Through collaborative inquiry and sharing thoughts and opinions, students may examine diverse texts by a single author that explore “identity” in those cultures. Students may demonstrate their understanding of how cultural and societal influences shape and define identity by writing their own narrative piece.

In this unit, the unit authors explore works by a single author. We have identified an extended anchor text for the unit with students then exploring shorter texts from the same author to study how an author explores the same themes and concepts in a body of his/her work. While this unit could work with any number of authors, the necessary element is that teachers build a body of multiple texts produced by the same author. The texts should reveal cultural and societal influences on the author and evidence of those influences in the literary works. For that reason, it may be useful for teachers to include author interviews, autobiographies, or essays so students can hear first-hand from the author about those societal or cultural influences on him/her and his/her writing. In this, as in all of our units, text is defined as any media, print or non-print, used to communicate an idea, emotion or information.

Unit Generalizations

Key Generalization:

The comparison of multiple texts can reveal the societal influences and cultural experiences of the author

Supporting Generalizations:

- Understand authors’ word choice, meaning and nuance can inform a student’s own narrative technique
- Collaboration around analysis of textual evidence allows students to examine and convey complex ideas
- Collaborative discussions and the diversity they reveal aid individuals’ observational abilities

Performance Assessment: The capstone/summative assessment for this unit.

Claims:
(Key generalization(s) to be mastered and demonstrated through the capstone assessment.)

The comparison of multiple texts can reveal the societal influences and cultural experiences of the author.

Stimulus Material:
(Engaging scenario that includes role, audience, goal/outcome and explicitly connects the key generalization)

Performance Assessment: You have been asked to submit a personal narrative to Teen Ink magazine exploring the tensions that adolescents may experience as they continue to grow into adulthood and that shape the person they are becoming. By studying the biographical, autobiographical, and nonfiction pieces from Sandra Cisneros, and through studying the characters she develops in her literary works, we gain a deeper insight into how societal influences and cultural experiences shape one’s identity. In the personal narrative you craft, explore how the societal influences around you combine with your own cultural experiences to shape your sense of self and your own identity.

Role: Yourself

Audience: Readers of a literary magazine about adolescent life (Teen Ink as an example)

Format: Personal narrative

Topic: Societal influences and cultural experiences in shaping our identity and sense of self

Product/Evidence:
(Expected product from students)

Students will write a personal narrative (or other genre based on personal experience) to illustrate and explain how societal influences and cultural experiences come together to shape one’s identity. By studying the works by and about Sandra Cisneros, for example, students will understand how authors’ lives are shaped by these external influences and, in turn, how their characters’ lives reflect those influences and experiences. In their own writing, students may reveal how the interactions or tensions between societal influences and cultural (or familial) experiences sometimes are in conflict with each other.
Differentiation:
(Multiple modes for student expression)

Personal narrative writing, or other types of writing stemming from personal experience, may take many forms – all which provide opportunity to differentiate. Students may choose to write

- Journal or diary type entries exploring the topic
- Slice of life
- Memoir
- A series of letters or correspondence
- Storyboard or graphic novel format

Texts for independent reading or for class read aloud to support the content

Skills:
- Come to discussion prepared
- Read and research material
- Refer to evidence from text

Assessment:
Students will complete various formative tasks throughout the unit:

2. Description:
To think, read, and write like literary critics, students will hone methods of reading for different purpose(s) and understanding(s)

Teacher Resources:
- Question guides / questioning techniques/hierarchy
  - (Question stems from DOK to capture higher level thinking)
  - (Question stems from Blooms to capture higher level thinking)
  - (Teacher think-aloud and modeling)

Student Resources:
- Texts
- Graphic organizers
- Notes
- Questions generated for discussion
- Responses to questions

Skills:
- Take notes
- Annotate texts
- Come to discussion prepared; read and research material; refer to evidence from text
- Determine meaning of words and phrases; analyze impact of word choice (Read and comprehend literary non-fiction)
- Analyze nuance in word meaning with similar denotation
- Interpret figures of speech and analyze their role in the text
- Understand that good discussions’ relationship to textual evidence
- Rereading for different purposes (author’s craft, cultural influences, etc.)
- Pose questions

Assessment:
Students will complete various formative tasks throughout the unit:
3. Description:

Students may demonstrate skills in determining word meaning using context or resources.

Teacher Resources:

- Think aloud strategies

Student Resources:

- Online thesaurus and dictionary

Skills:

- Grammatical structures that give meaning (parentheticals, appositives)
- Word parts (Greek and Latin roots, morphemes)

Assessment:

Students will complete various formative tasks throughout the unit, e.g. peer and teacher writing conferences, writing checklists and self-assessment, etc.

Prior Knowledge and Experiences

Students should be able to demonstrate reading and note-taking skills, use textual evidence to support ideas, understand literary terms (theme, setting, character, plot, etc.), use basic group discussion skills, use basic writing skills, and write dialogue in narratives.

Learning Experience # 1

The teacher may build background knowledge on the author of focus (e.g., Sandra Cisneros) so that students can begin to identify the major social and cultural influences that shape the author’s work.

Generalization Connection(s):

The comparison of multiple texts can reveal the societal influences and cultural experiences of the author

Critical Content:

- Background information on the author (e.g. Sandra Cisneros)

Key Skills:

- Note taking, gathering information

Critical Language:

- Culture, society, diversity, adversity, evidence

Learning Experience # 2

The teacher may use a short text from the focus author (e.g., “Eleven”) so that students can discern the cultural experiences and/or societal influences apparent in the work.

[Understanding text, Responding to text]

Generalization Connection(s):

The comparison of multiple texts can reveal the societal influences and cultural experiences of the author. Collaboration around analysis of textual evidence allows students to examine and convey complex ideas. Understand authors’ word choice, meaning and nuance can inform a student’s own narrative technique.

Learning Experience # 4

The teacher may use a short text from the focus author (e.g. the poem “You Bring Out The Mexican In Me”) so that students can read for the ways in which the author uses societal experiences to shape/convey identities. [Understanding text, Responding to text]

Generalization Connection(s):
Collaboration around analysis of textual evidence allows students to examine and convey complex ideas Understand authors’ word choice, meaning and nuance can inform a student’s own narrative technique

Assessment:
Performance Assessment for the Unit: You have been asked to submit a personal narrative to Teen Ink magazine exploring the tensions that adolescents may experience as they continue to grow into adulthood and that shape the person they are becoming. By studying the biographical, autobiographical, and nonfiction pieces from Cisneros, and through studying the characters she develops in her literary works, we gain a deeper insight into how societal influences and cultural experiences shape one’s identity. In the personal narrative you craft, explore how the societal influences around you combine with your own cultural experiences to shape your sense of self and your own identity.
